

Overview:

The app will be a catalog app for keeping track of different types of media that you've consumed. You will be able to add movies and TV shows watched, books read, and games played into list of based on whether you have already watched/read/played the media or whether it is on your to-do list. My idea for the app is because I enjoy keeping track of what I've consumed, but so far there is no one app that can keep track of everything well, they are all also overly complicated. There is also no good app for keeping track of games.

Milestones:

1. Overall navigation of app with ability to add any type of media to different lists. Media details/tags will have to be added manually by user including images from camera roll.
2. Custom lists, searching plus filters.
3. External API access to get movie, TV show, book, and game titles and details to fill in instead of manual entry.

Example Flow:

This is doesn't show the entire UI or all features, but will hopefully give an idea of the overall flow of the app.
